

ANSWERS TO SOME IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ABOUT LifeBook®

What is LifeBook®?

- LifeBook® is a tool, a sacred book if you will, that documents the human and spiritual journey of its owner. It is not a bound book, but like your life, is contained within a structure that allows for changes and additions as they naturally occur in your own life cycle.

Why is this program important?

- LifeBook® enables documentation of information that is both practical and critical in one place that is easily accessible.
- LifeBook® is as a record of the most significant people and moments in your life.
- While LifeBook® provides the place to record the life and soul journey of its owner, one of the most important aspects of doing this work is to recognize the sacred element of one's being and to recognize one's own unique purpose in this life journey.
- The process of exploring and documenting one's life journey holds the potential of addressing and healing the four spiritual pains, Meaning, Relatedness, Hope and Forgiveness, as identified through the Sacred Art of Dying program, by Richard & Mary Groves. (The Sacred Art of Living Center, Bend, Oregon. <http://www.sacredartofliving.org/>)
A "Circle of Healing" is initiated by addressing the pain that arises from loss of Meaning or purpose for one's existence. A soul begins to recognize its Relatedness with God and to all of creation. When there is a sense of connectedness, Hope is ignited. And if one has hope, then one can enter into the process of Forgiveness. To extend this blessing of forgiveness into one's own life first, merciful and compassionate forgiveness is then extended to others, completing the "Circle of Healing". By living the "Circle of Healing", peace and harmony are restored.
- LifeBook® leaves a "legacy" to be handed down through generations.
- The process provides a means to deeper avenues of communication and understanding with families and loved ones. It can also be a valuable tool for those working within hospices, nursing homes and hospitals. Not only is this a useful tool for those we care for, but for those who are caring for others. For it is in honoring our own unique purpose and value, that we enter more deeply into what it means to love and how we can truly be present to another and provide compassionate and mercy-filled care.

Who is LifeBook® for?

- The process of beginning a LifeBook® can commence at any stage of life. From the time a parent becomes aware of a new life, to those entering the final stage of their earthly existence. It can be a tool for those who are grieving the passage of their loved ones, by remembering and documenting their journey.
